

somebody else that could answer the question?

SENATOR MARVEL: Senator DeCamp, do you yield? You have about thirty seconds left.

SENATOR DE CAMP: A special provision was put in the bill written by the trial attorneys or the attorneys, I believe, that have a two year thing that doesn't apply, in other words, grandfathers and certain things, and I think that was uniformly agreed to by those that had some concern, if that is what you're talking about.

SENATOR DWORAK: A twenty five year old drill press, they would be liable for two more years, is that correct? Thank you Senator DeCamp.

SENATOR MARVEL: Your time is up, Senator Dworak. Senator Brennan.

SENATOR BRENNAN: Senator DeCamp, I have asked you some questions about this privately and also your attorney, but do you think we need the legislative intent in there about the, on page two, line twenty-three. It says, "or damage when it was first sold". What is a selling date for say some switch gear put into a building? Is that the date the building is sold? I don't know.

SENATOR DE CAMP: Okay, we're back to the Uniform Commercial Code and all the case law on this and what constitutes transfer and delivery and on matters, let's say we're talking about a $12,000,000 generator or something. They have attorneys on both sides that draw up an agreement as to when possession in title passes. As I say, there is volumes of case law on this subject. That is why this morning when Senator Chambers had his amendment, I said, okay, look, the intent is that we refer to the existing law, the existing U.C.C., the existing case law, but as a concession, I don't think it is necessary, but I would put into writing that we are referring to these and I want it open for any future development, so yes, there is all kinds of definitions as to what this is.

SENATOR BRENNAN: Another question, how about the definition of manufacturers? Now, is an assembler a manufacturer? We're getting into strict liability in tort, is what I'm wondering about because I don't know too much about it. For instance you buy, are you tuned in, sir?

SENATOR MARVEL: Are you asking Senator DeCamp another question?

SENATOR BRENNAN: Yes, sir.

SENATOR MARVEL: Go ahead.

SENATOR BRENNAN: Senator DeCamp, who is the manufacturer when you get into component parts and how does that fit into a state of the arts if there is nothing in the records or in the courts so far about it?

SENATOR DE CAMP: Well, you could sue all of them, but you know your question is who is a manufacturer or an assembler or...

SENATOR BRENNAN: Well, I'll give you a specific question.

SENATOR DE CAMP: No, let me just answer that.
